SIDELIGHTS ON NEXT YEAR'S DAILY MANAGING BOARD

Bob Reich, the new Editor-in-Chief, worked on the Features department of the Daily since he came to McGill in 1953. He was senior editor in 1954 and Features Editor in 1955. He has also been Publicity Chairman of Hillel Foundation and has worked in advertising outside of McGill. He is a third-year Science student.

The Managing Editor for next year is Peter Regenstreif a third-year Arts student in Honours Political Science and Economics. Besides working on the Daily where he held the position of News Editor this year, he has been Editor-in-Chief of the McGill Handbook and is presently in the McGill Contingent COTC. As well, he is next year's Freshman Reception Chairman.

Norm Zavalkoff, third-year Commerce and new Business Manager, came to McGill from Strathcona Academy and has carried on his studies at McGill under Macdonald and Faculty Scholarships. He has spent three years on the Daily in the Sports Department and last year held the position of Sports Editor. He was also an ex-officio member of the SAC.

Jim Lotz who as Executive Editor will head the Editorial Board next year is a graduate assistant in Geography. He received his B.A. in 1952 from Manchester University where he was the Assistant Editor of the campus newspaper. At McGill, he is captain of the Judo team, Vice-President of the Liberal Club and is active in Union debates.

GUALTIERI, LEDAIN WIN UNION POSTS

Morie Shohet, B. Eng. 4, yesterday was chosen Students' Society President by a vote of 1453 to 1183 over Don Stirling, B.D. 1.

Bob Gualtieri was elected to the position of President of the McGill Union with 763 votes. His opponents, David Lochhead, Bill Feldman, and Alec Bhanos received 282, 434, and 507 votes, respectively.

Daily Editor-in-Chief

Shohet, outgoing Editor-in-Chief of the Daily, was born in Bhagdad. He was educated in India, the United States, and Montreal. He joined the Daily in 1952 as a Sports staffer and rose to head of that department before becoming Editor-in-Chief. Shohet has worked on the Red and White Revue as Script Co-ordinator, and is a Scarlet Key.

Gualtieri, B.A. 3, is on the Debating Union Executive. He holds the position of Vice-President of the Student Christian Movement and has played Intermediate football. Gualtieri holds the William MacDonald and Roy Wolvin scholarships.

S.A.C. President

Tim Wagg, B. Eng. 4, was acclaimed as President of the Students' Athletic Council.

The new President of the Women's Union will be Janet LeDain, who won with 226 votes over Janet Buzzell and Barb Shipman. Women's Union Secretary will be Elizabeth Vale. Member-at-large of the Women's Union, who will also act as Women's Vice-President of the Students' Union, will be Joan Fish who was elected with 116 votes.

MWSAA President, Sheila Morris, was elected with 283 votes.

Don Harterre was elected President of the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society. Also elected were Sybil Beck as First Vice-President and Norm Samuels as Second Vice-President; Joe Puddicombe was acclaimed as Athletic Representative.

CUS President

The new President of the Commerce Undergraduate Society will be John Hobbs. Don Crossley was elected as CUS treasurer and Peter Monk as Vice-President. Don Wright will be CUS Athletic Representative.

In the Engineering Undergraduate Society race, John Gillman was elected President over Pierre Arsenault. EUS Vice-Presidents will be Steve Sura, First Vice-President, and Don Gilmer, Second Vice-President.

57.4% of the student body voted in yesterday's elections. The highest percentage vote was recorded by Physical Education with 81.2%. Medicine was the lowest with 37%.

SENTIMENTAL

Today, for us, is just a bit like Christmas, or a family reunion, or like the day when little Johnny got his first haircut. Today we feel that we are entitled to get just a bit sloppy and sentimental. Today is the day when the McGill Daily is no longer "Published five days a week by the undergraduates of McGill University at 690 Sherbrooke Street West. Telephone AV. 8-2244."

To us, no doubt, this is more important than it is to you. It is not difficult to imagine the publicity agent for the Music Club irritated because the Daily will no longer carry advance notice of his concerts. It is very difficult to imagine this same publicity agent standing slightly misty eyed before a press busily clanking out his newspaper. Just what is there in a stinking, archaic, noisy, old grasshopper of a flat-bed press that would make any one misty-eyed? Damned if we know, and damned if we care; now it is just a little difficult to see, just a little difficult to swallow.

For us the Daily acquires some sort of personality. It is not a very clearly defined personality. It is like a girl whom you know, but not too well, she is very pretty, but quite likely to do anything. She is an Anti-pro-communist, democratic fascist, liberal stodgy child-like, mature newspaper. We love her for her mistakes and her inconsistencies, rather than in spite of them. She is impetuous and lively. We hope that her readers can see the glint in her eye, it is there more often than not.

Our relations with her were never dull. She was an exciting boss, for at times she ran us. She was a far from docile retainer, for at times we tried to run her. Our relations with her have been happy, it's been fun to be around. For we have just been around, we are the transients. The Daily has been and will be here longer than any of us.

We are unabashedly misty-eyed. You will forgive us? This sort of editorial is written for us and for those who have worked with the Daily, and not really for you at all. To you then, if you must eavesdrop, we present the McGill Daily as we see her, and without apology.

PLUS ÇA CHANGE

Today we herald a sweeping change in the Daily make-up. So that you will not lose too much time from your lectures we will point it out. The Daily used to describe itself on its masthead as the oldest college daily in the "British Commonwealth". The trouble was that for the last few years there hasn't been any such animal. We realize that we may have conservative subscribers who will regret the symbolic passing of an era, but we also have 160 subscribers who are constitutional lawyers. And who wants to argue with 160 constitutional lawyers?

No, that's not the name of a new movie. Since this is the last Town Crier of the season, here are some general comments on these last five months.

First, if the number of productions seen these last months is any indication, Montreal's little theatre movement is in a healthy artistic state indeed. New plays, especially by French companies, have appeared on almost a regular fortnightly basis and the overall standards have been consistently high.

The movie industry has also had its share of successes . . . Picnic, East of Eden, Trial, Mr. Roberts . . . to mention some. Of course there have also been some less illustrious items, but its at least encouraging to see that the producers are finally recognizing entertainment value as a necessity rather than merely a hasty afterthought.

In other words, the film industry is slowly adopting a more mature approach. But as maturity increases so does the problem of film censorship in this province. What is needed, is a thorough revision of the moral code, an unbiased, reasonable revision that will put film censorship more in line with the realities of life. Per-

YOU CHECK YOUR BANK BALANCE...

Why not your Health?

● You keep a careful record of the checks you write; compare your balance regularly with the bank's statement. That's fine! Money is a nice thing to have around for a "rainy" day. So, it's important to keep track of it.

But how about your Health? It is worth more than all the money in the bank! How long has it been since you have had a thorough physical check-up? Better make an appointment with your Doctor today. His timely recommendations may prevent serious complications—and, incidentally, enable you to keep more of your money in that bank account! Then, for pure, potent drugs, expertly compounded, come to this Pharmacy with your Doctor's prescriptions.

SPORTING HIGHLIGHTS

by BERNIE HABER

At this time of the year when most of the intercollegiate athletic activities are drawing to a close, and copy material is getting short, it's the ideal moment to sum up and review the sporting achievements of the year.

The traditional way of assessing allround intercollegiate supremacy is just to add up the number of intercollegiate championships won, and the school with the largest number coming out on top. It's perhaps not the fairest or most accurate method, for no credit at all is given for placing second or even third. And with the exception of senior football no playoff system is used at all. But even on that system McGill has done extremely well, winning six intercollegiate championships, with its nearest rival, the U of T blues ending up with five.

Rugger is not as heavily accentuated on the athletic curriculum as it is in some of the Ontario schools. In fact at one time, due to lack of support it was contemplated dropping rugger altogether at McGill. The decision not to do so was amply justified when the ruggerteam, climaxed a very successful season by winning the intercollegiate trophy.

Any sport is only as successful as the interest and the number of people participating in it. Squash is the most popular participant sport on the campus, and is a heavy favourite on the required sports program. This has been amply borne out, as McGill squash teams have been the outstanding contenders in intercollegiate competition for the past few years. This year was no exception, as the local crew romped to the sixth consecutive championship.

Aquatic coach Barry Thompson started his first year very auspiciously by winning the fabulous double. This double victory speaks very eloquently for the high standards of coaching and swimming at McGill.

The water polo team this year was consisted of quite a few newcomers around the nucleus of veterans, such as Art Rosenberg and Bram Gelfand. After performing fairly well during the season against high calibre city teams, the squad came through in fine style to beat their perennial rivals, the Toronto Blues, in a total point series for the Heshorn Trophy, emblematic of intercollegiate supremacy.

The highlights of the swimming season were the stellar performances of Jerry Anderson and flashy Lloyd Kishino. The fine swimming of Cook, Weinstein, to name just a few, gave McGill a slight edge as they upset the up and coming Western team for the intercollegiate championship held last week at the Currie pool.

Lloyd Kishino has been hampered all season with a slight ear injury, and could not practice as much as he would have liked to. In view of this, his performance last week in establishing a new Canadian national record is all the more remarkable.

Kishino is being mentioned as a potential candidate for the olympic squad. Another McGillian who is being considered for Olympic honours is Jerry Anderson, this year's sensation in intercollegiate diving circles. Jerry has been invited to participate in the US olympic diving trials which will be held in Philadelphia. While on the subject of the olympics, another possibility for the Melbourne games is the Red and White half mile expert, Reid.

The skiing championship held during the Winter carnival, the local skiers successfully defended the championship which they won last year. The gymnastic squad, coached by Howie Ryan won the intercollegiate gymnastics. Starving for McGill was team captain Kenny Marshall, who is recognised as one of the best intercollegiate gymnasts.

One of the pleasant surprises of the season was the performance of the senior football team. Coach Larry Sullivan has done an outstanding job, and we take our hats off to him. Although the Redmen didn't finish at the top, competent observers rated them the hottest team in the league at the end of the season.

Spearheaded by such outstanding newcomers as Carr, Brown, Adrian, The Redmen are tipped as heavy favourites for next year's championship honours. But more important than that is the fact that McGill supporters actually snapped out of their traditional apathy, and became rabid fans.

Still on the credit side of the ledger, the hockey rink is just now about completed, and due to circumstances beyond control, will only be opened next fall. In passing, let's add that's now definitely known that Drapeau will not use the new rink for a concert hall. This is good news for both McGill players and fans. At last the pucksters will have home ice, and will be able to practice at their con-

REDMEN PLAY CARABINS

by Irwin Sankoff

Pete Constable and Brian McCann will be putting on their Red and White sweaters for the last time this Friday night as the McGill Rermen close the hockey season against the U of M Carabins at Verdun Auditorium. Game time is slated for 8:15 at the Aud.

Both Constable and McCann, who performed brilliantly for the Redmen this season are due to graduate. McCann only played one year with the Red and White while Pete is a three year veteran. Gordie Currie, the other member of the team who is graduating, will not play as he has a bad knee. Otherwise Rocky Robillard expects the team to be at full strength.

The only player who may have difficulty on the ice is Doug Maule, boy chemist. Doug cut his hand up in a chemistry lab and may have trouble holding a stick.

Otherwise the Redmen will line up as they have all season. Rocky Robillard will send Brian McCann to centre with Dick Baltzan flanking him on the right side and Leo Konyk on the left. Pete Constable will centre the other line with Ross Hughes and Jackie McMullan patrolling the wing lanes. Warren Allmand will be the extra forward.

Big Len Sigurdson and Doug Maule will form one defence pair while Jim Grant and Brian McMullan will form the second pair. Dinty O'Shaughnessy will be between the pipes for the Redmen.

Well, that about sums it up. If over these past months you haven't agreed with some of the opinions expressed here, remember that criticism is a purely subjective business. When a critic refers to a play as Alexander Woollcott once did as having left a taste of lukewarm parsnip juice its privilege to do so. But this opinion certainly doesn't invalidate anyone else's. A critic's viewpoint we feel is useful merely as a basis for your own evaluation. To do that effectively, he must have both integrity and consistency . . . but that's enough from us.
